You sir have much left to learn about the complicated realm of jurisdictional empowerment and the counter-productivity of alienating the very people you wish to enlist to your aid by labeling them "ignorant" and accusing them of "badmouthing".

I operate a professional consultancy business that has operated successfully for now fourteen years. I have worked with nine different engineering firms in Central Illinois. I would be happy to work with yours should our paths cross on a project. Mr. Hartke, it is not your position on this issue that endangers you business, it is your childish tactics.

Awesome.....we had to wake up early on Father's Day. The wind turbines are too noisy INSIDE our house. The Vermilion County Board has the ability to stop this.

We demand that you start taking steps against InvEnergy to make them keep their turbine noise within the legally allowed parameters. They are exceeding ICPB limits. Your ignorance and inaction has allowed this to continue. We were tricked by InvEnergy.....they lied to us.....time to put our foot down. The coals are getting hotter for everyone connected to the situation, including each of you.

It is hard to keep this from being personal when it is only a handful of individuals at the top of Vermilion County leadership who still have done nothing to help and appear to have contributed to the problem with their actions, inaction, words, emails, and badmouthing.

On Friday, I became aware of a discussion which included a board member and topic about how my fight will cause a huge problem for my company to get work in this county.....goes to show that I am making a huge sacrifice which few other people would ever consider. Your efforts should be focused on InvEnergy's illegal wind farm operation noise instead of involving my small business which provides services to all of Vermilion County. My company operates WITHIN the Illinois statute AND I live here. How is this my fault? Why should you fight me? I am not wrong.
